the 1972 melaureus is a yearbook with a purpose. our basic attempt is to show in a realistic manner, one year at ritenour. in order to do this, we must also examine ourselves to see where we have been, and just as importantly, where we expect to go in the future. this may make it difficult to present a true picture, since any high school has within itself many different faces at any given time. nevertheless, let this yearbook be considered an honest attempt to show at least some of the many faces that are ritenour's.

this was a year of greatly diversified activities for ritenour students. some went to play in the band at busch stadium, some performed magic tricks to delight children at a christmas party and some marched in parades — but all enjoyed the time spent in their varied activities.

debo's musicians had worked off their a's
twenty-five dismal days;

no rain had come down
as they marched all around,
twenty-five dismal days;

but as that day grew near
it was all too clear,
that debo would have need of a raft;

so when halftime had come
and they yearned for some fun,
they gave the band the shaft.

10 — homecoming game

with 23-0 keelhauling of pirates

the climax of homecoming week is the football game. it is utterly crucial with its outcome either agonizing or exhilarating. this year's clash with the pirates from pattonville was one of the latter, with the huskies coming out on top by a score of 23-0. halftime activity was as usual excellent, with the band and the rhythmettes providing entertainment entitled — "women's lib". all of this was capped by the crowning of terre phillips as homecoming queen. the stage was set for the dance.

ends with romantic glow

homecoming day came to a close with the dance, held in costilow fieldhouse. music was provided by the gary paul group, and partly due to the earlier football victory, everyone seemed to have a good time.

kathy myerscough journeys to ecuador

june, 1971 found kathy myerscough as ritenour's representative in the american field service's americans abroad program. leaving st. louis in june, kathy first went to miami for some seminars and general "processing". from there she flew to quito, ecuador's capital, where she spent three days. then it was on to santo domingo to spend the remainder of the summer with her new family the argüellos. they are a typical middle-class family — right down to the crickets in their bathtub, which kathy grew to know and love.

can elin gjerstad find happiness in hot dogs,

elin came to us from norway, the land of sardines, fjords and fjelds, king olaf and the midnight sun. she approached life here with the vigor of a viking. she is an a.f.s. member, a star hockey player, an alto with the choir, a library assistant, a student council representative and a melaureus staff member.

we hope that elin has learned from us as much as we have learned from her. among other things, many of us will never forget that christopher columbus came in second to leif ericson's lead.

elin enjoyed many activities here — from cupcake eating to baseball practice.

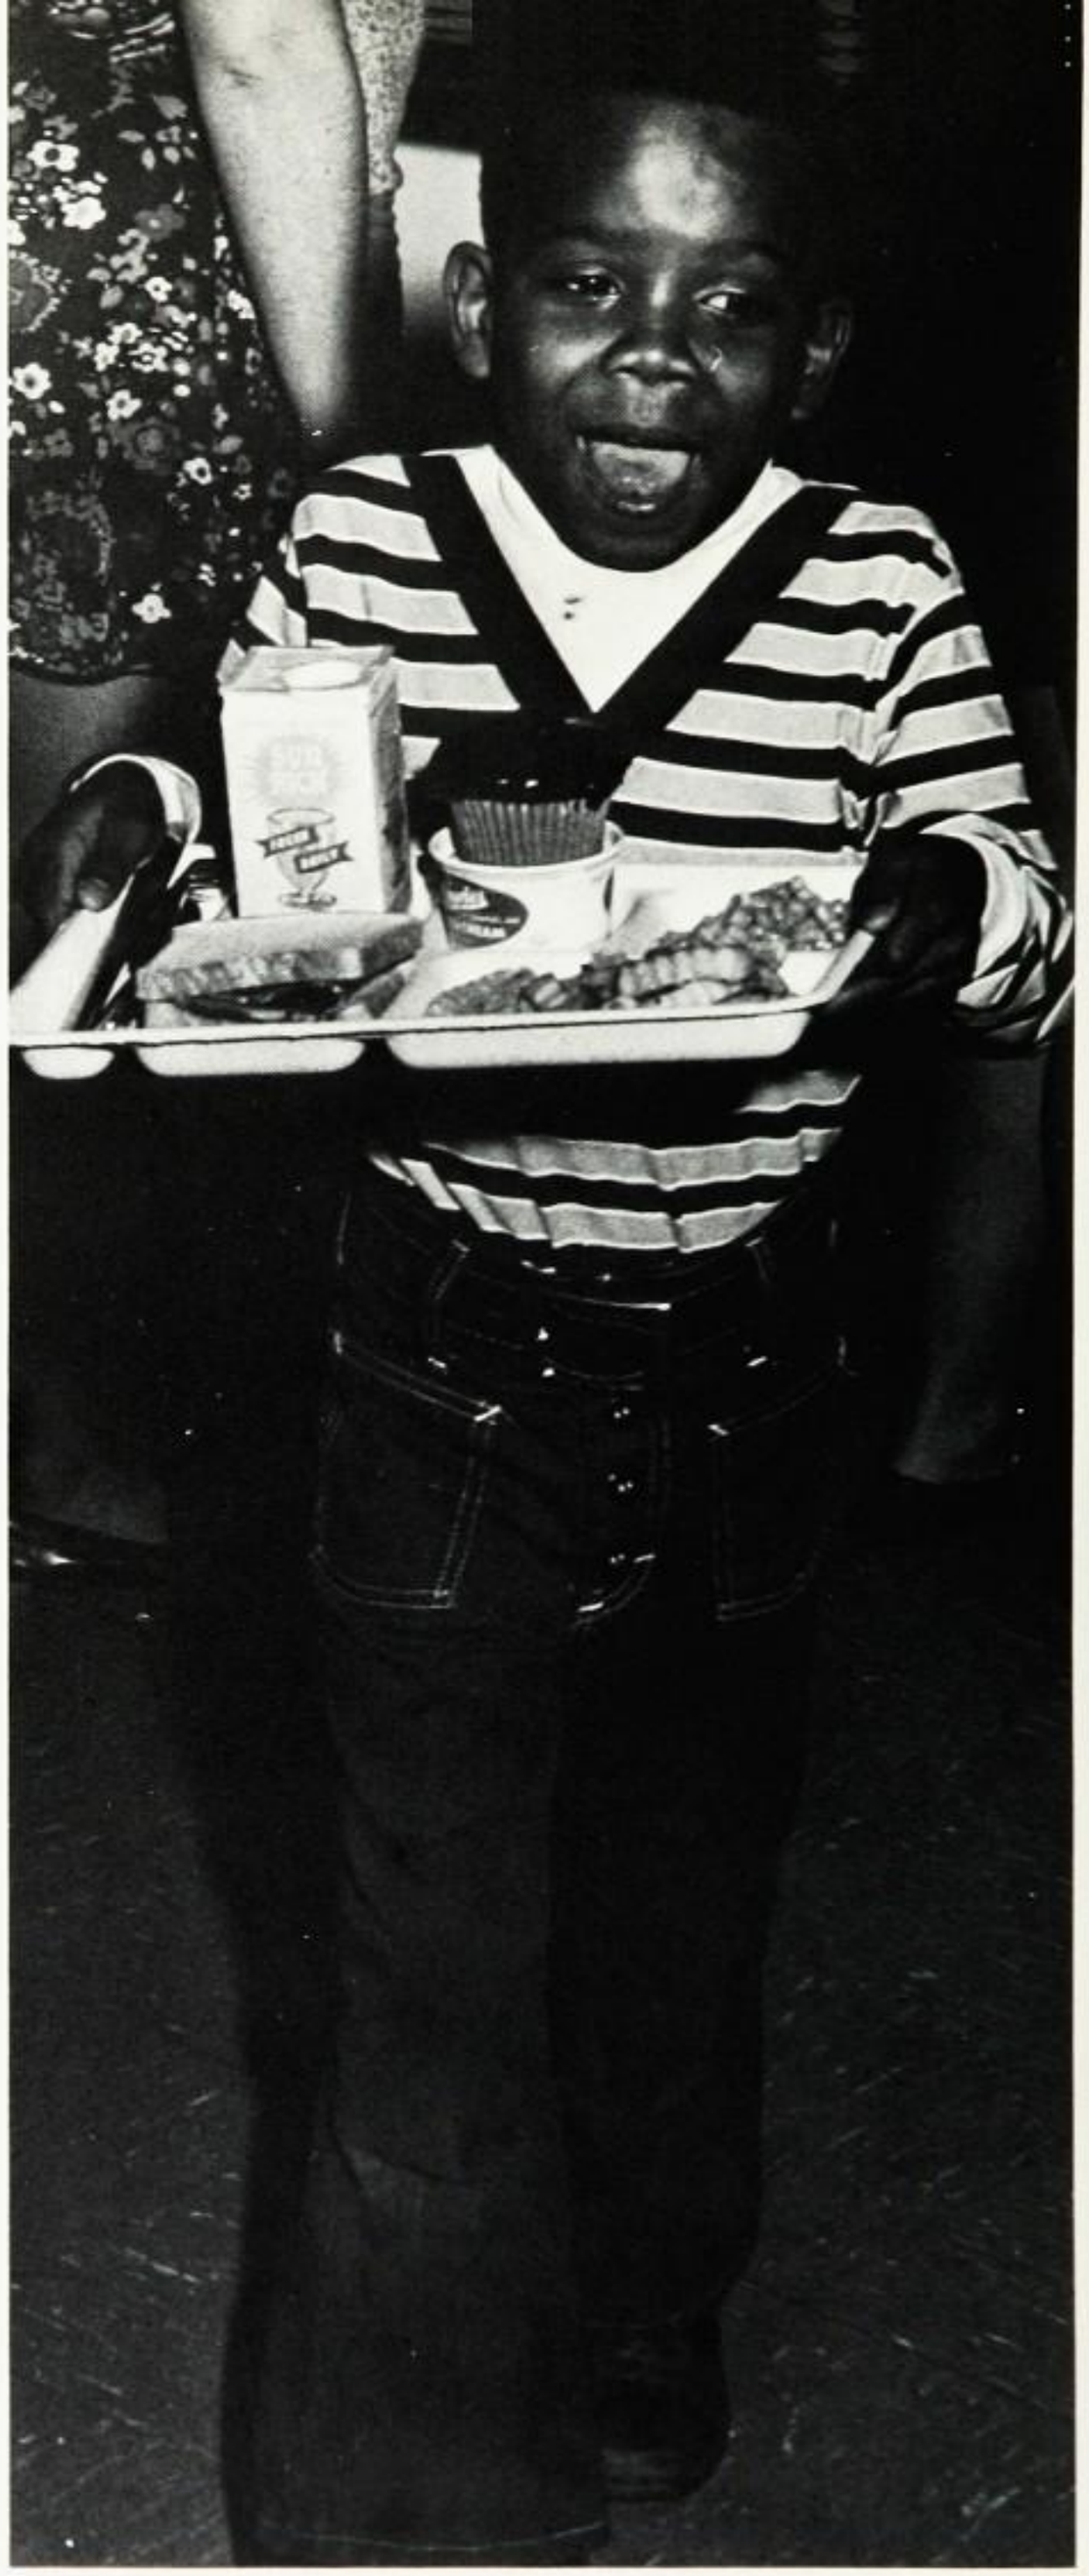
christmas dinner provides afternoon to remember for underprivileged



dave garvey relieved the crowded situation by making several of the kids disappear.

the activities committee of student council this year again sponsored a christmas dinner which was attended by forty-two children from elmwood school. the afternoon's activities included a rousing game of musical chairs, dave garvey's magic show, and the highlight-the arrival of "sandy claws", portrayed by lee arnold. the old bowlful of jelly was a proper ending for the afternoon, as it was the only thing lacking in the dinner menu.

while many aspects of ritenour are changing, others remain established institutions. sports have always played an important part in the total picture of life at ritenour and they will continue to do so. our proud past includes the fourteen consecutive first place state championships in wrestling. the present is represented by another suburban north football title. our future looks to be a time of greater diversity and of contending basketball and soccer teams. in addition, we continually find that girl's sports are on the upswing. all these factors tend to support the fact that ritenour's desire for competition will never end.

the many organizations of ritenour have remained relatively unchanged over the years. past records will show that the basic interests of the student body have altered very little. of course, there are a few exceptions as witnessed by the emergence of clubs such as gasp and wantu wazuri, but these could be partly explained as outgrowths of nation-wide movements. many have retained their basic structures and merely moved their interests in different directions. whatever the case may be, riten-our's varying organizations have been more than successful in channeling many of the other than academic interests of its students.

the way of life of the 40's and 50's even the 60's is gone forever. the "good old days" are now only memories which exist in the minds of those who actually experienced them.

even now, we find ourselves changing and moving forward. before today becomes yesterday, let's examine it. evaluating today, we can make tomorrow better.

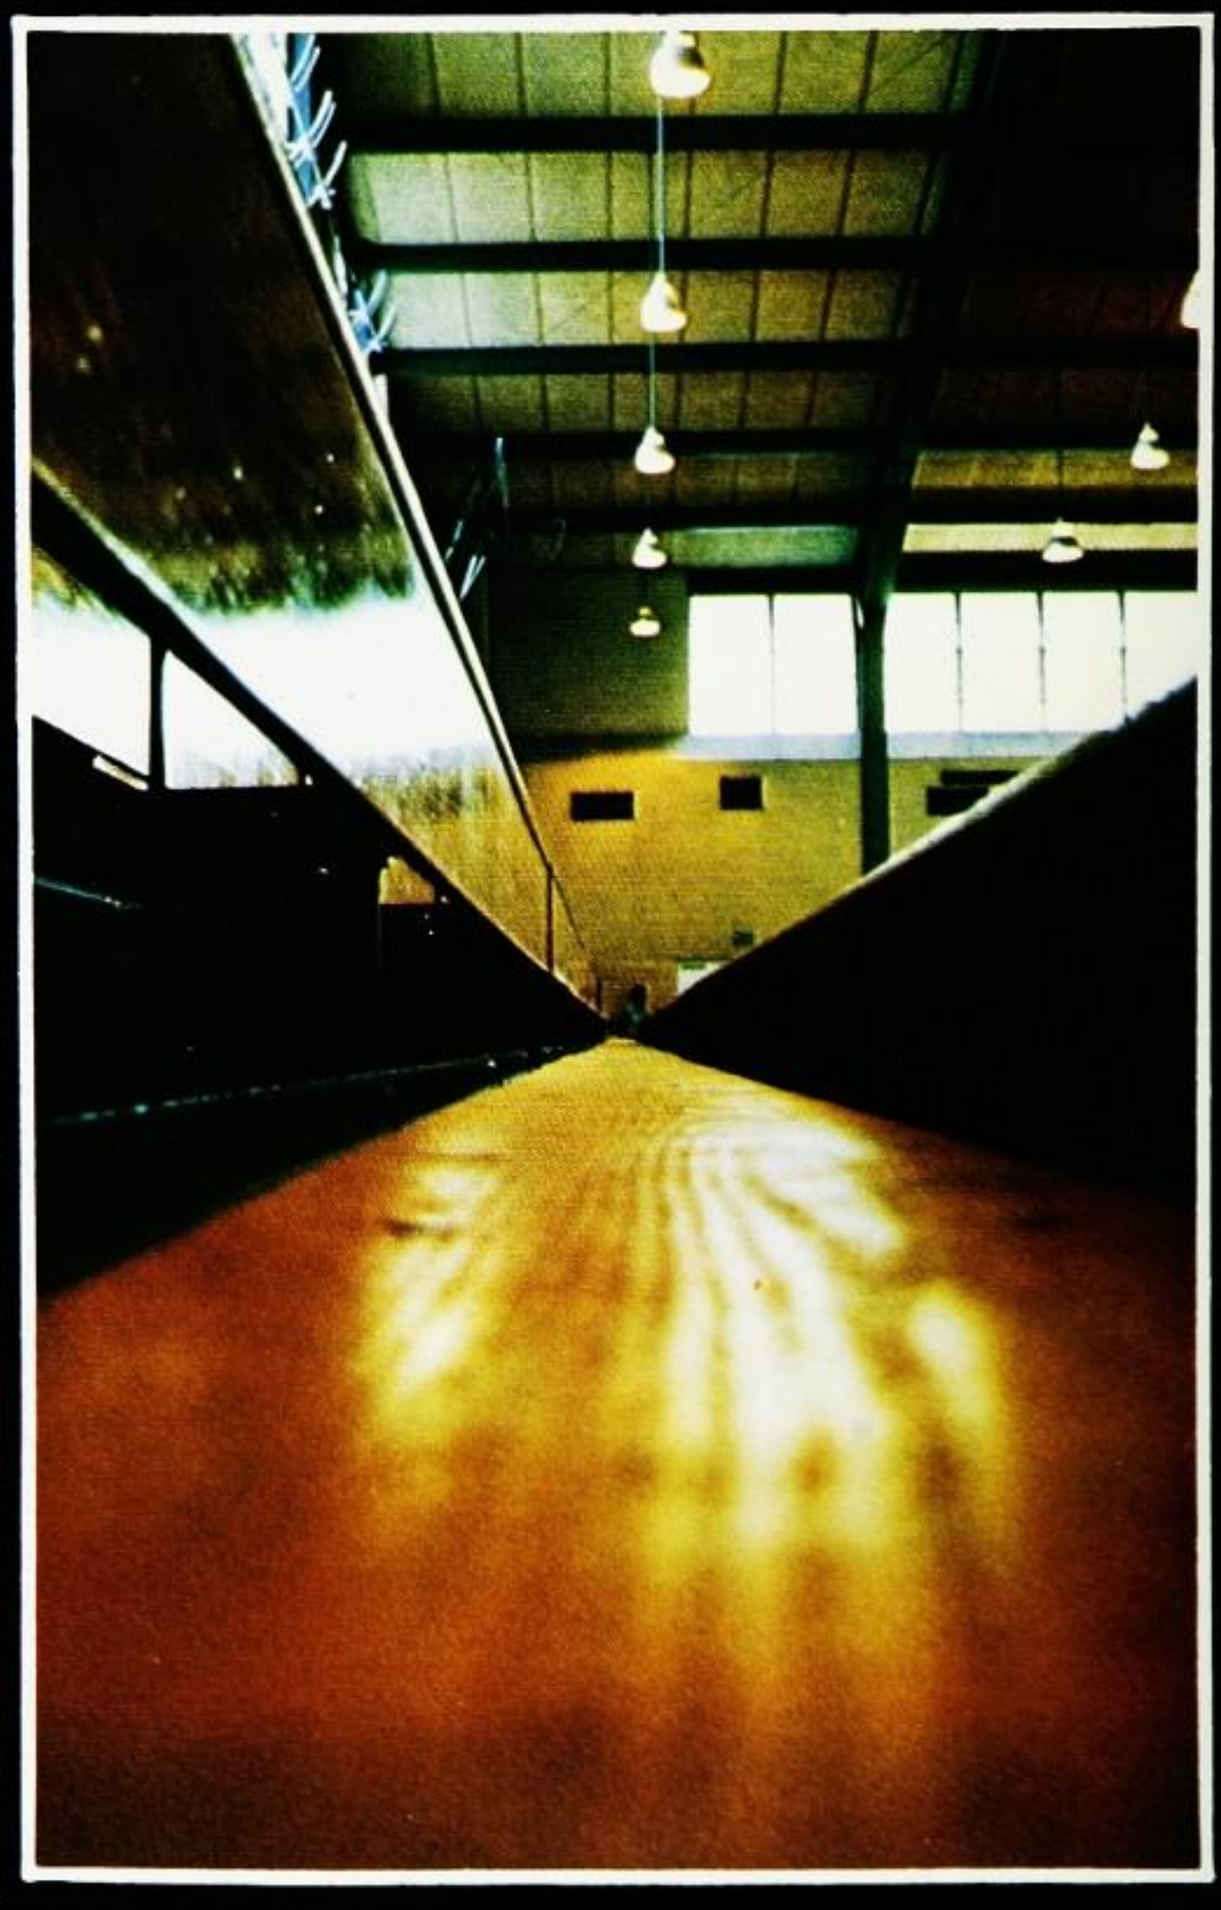
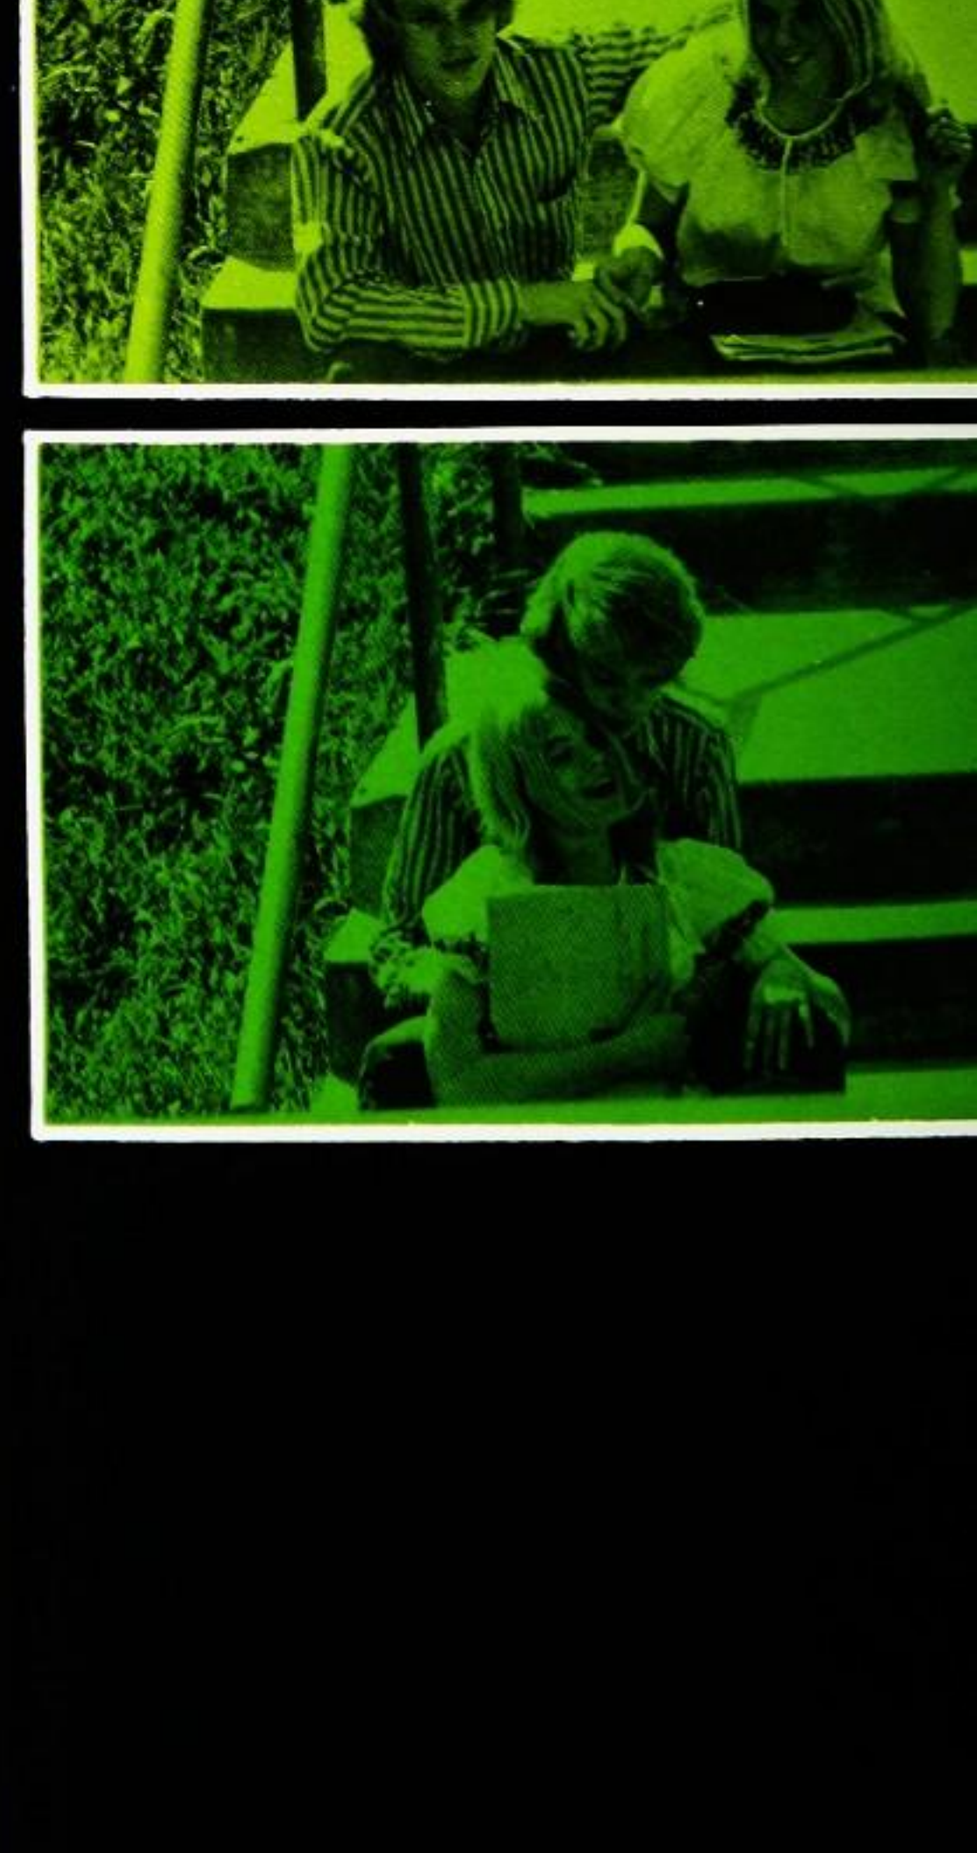
1972

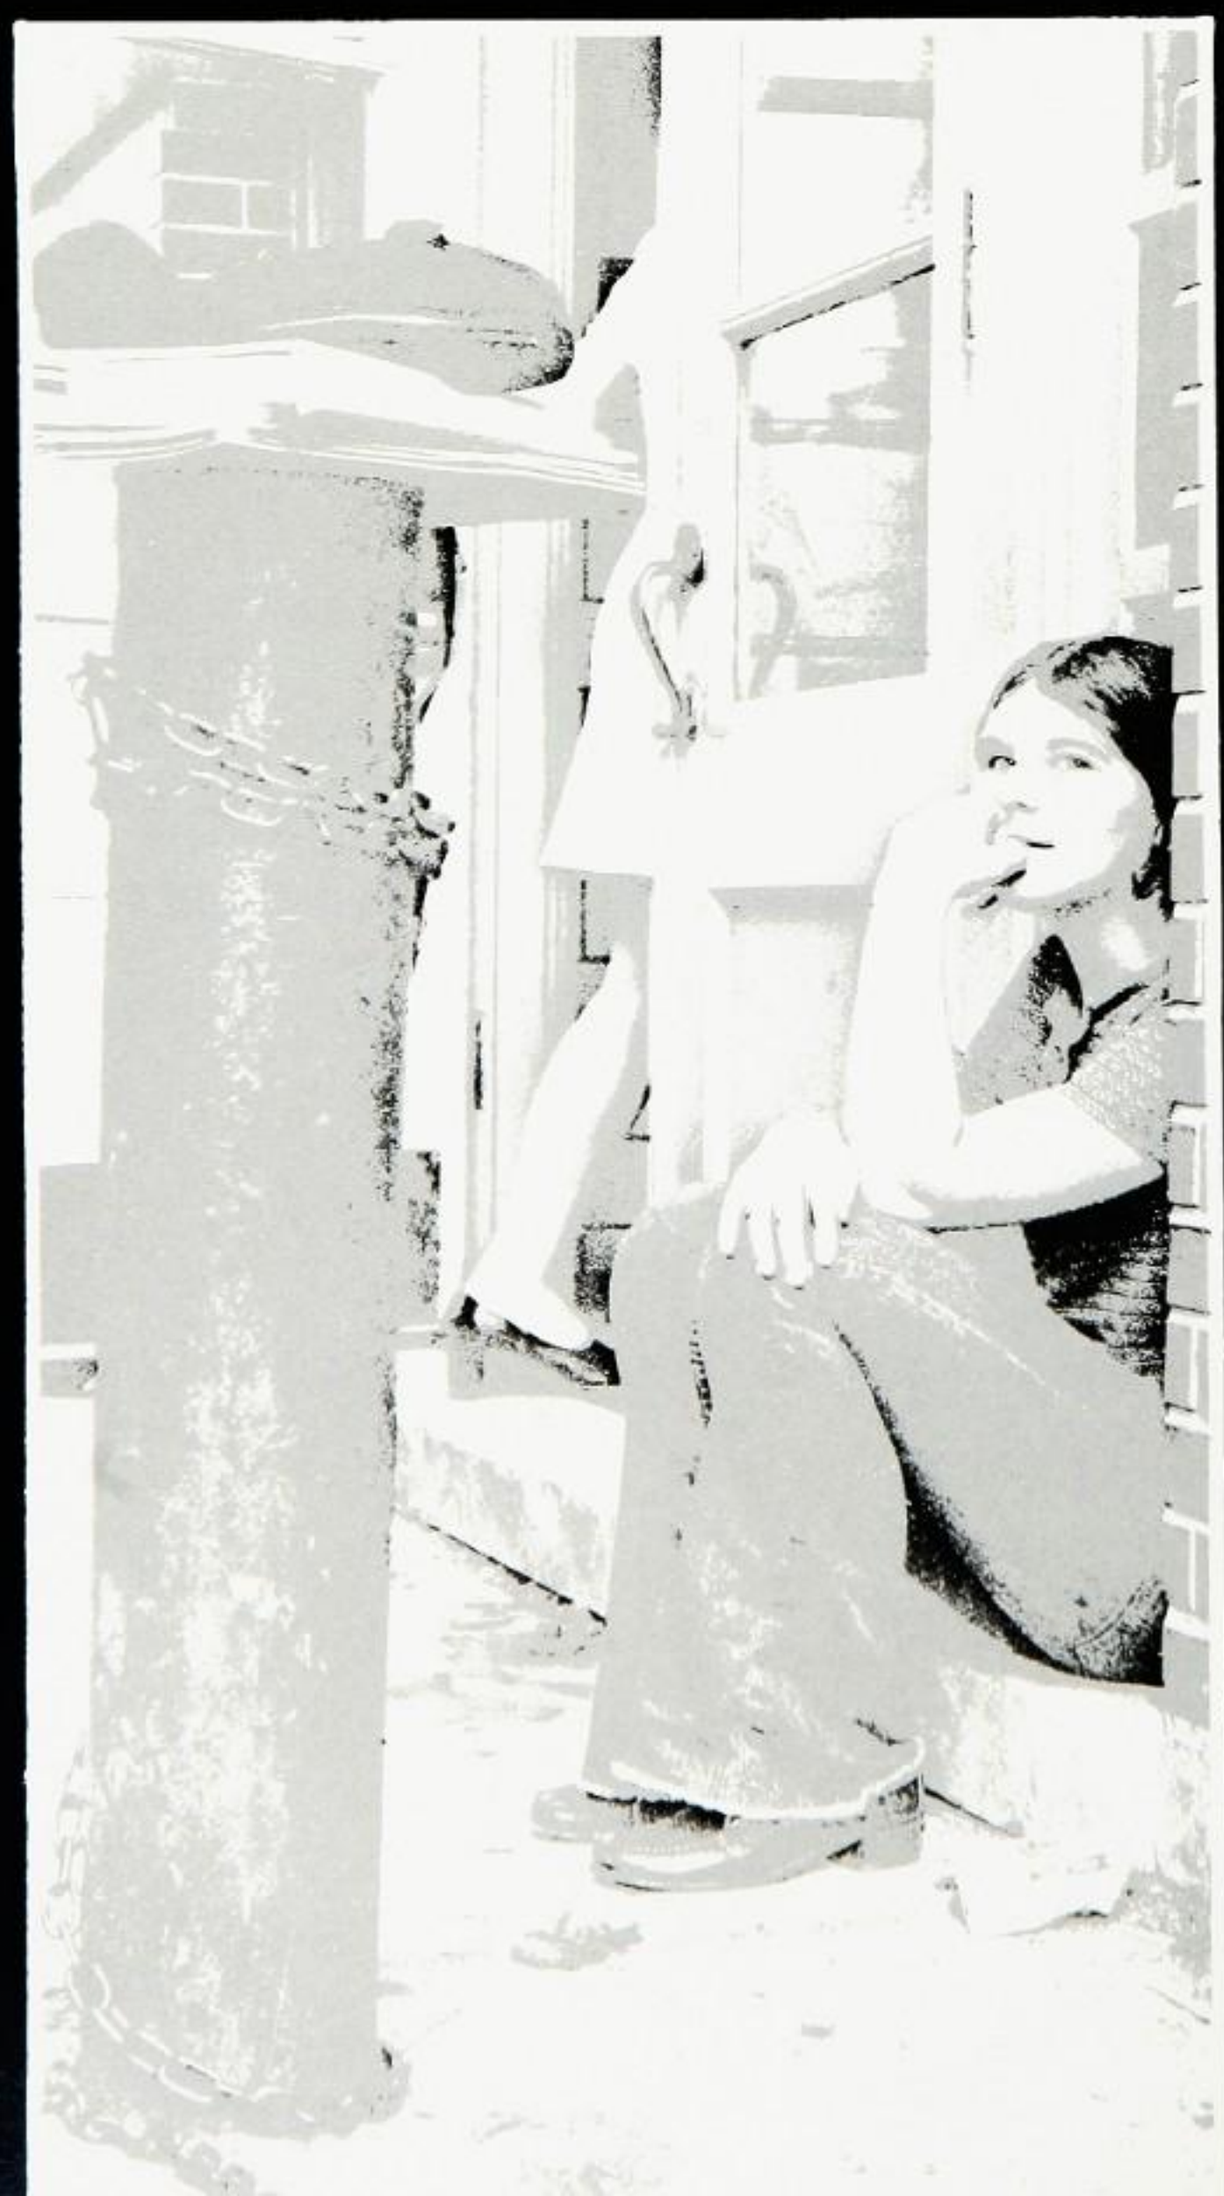
the most obvious change that has taken place, is that ritenour has been reborn physically. these additions are more than just bricks and mortar — their originality naturally initiates a fresh approach to education.

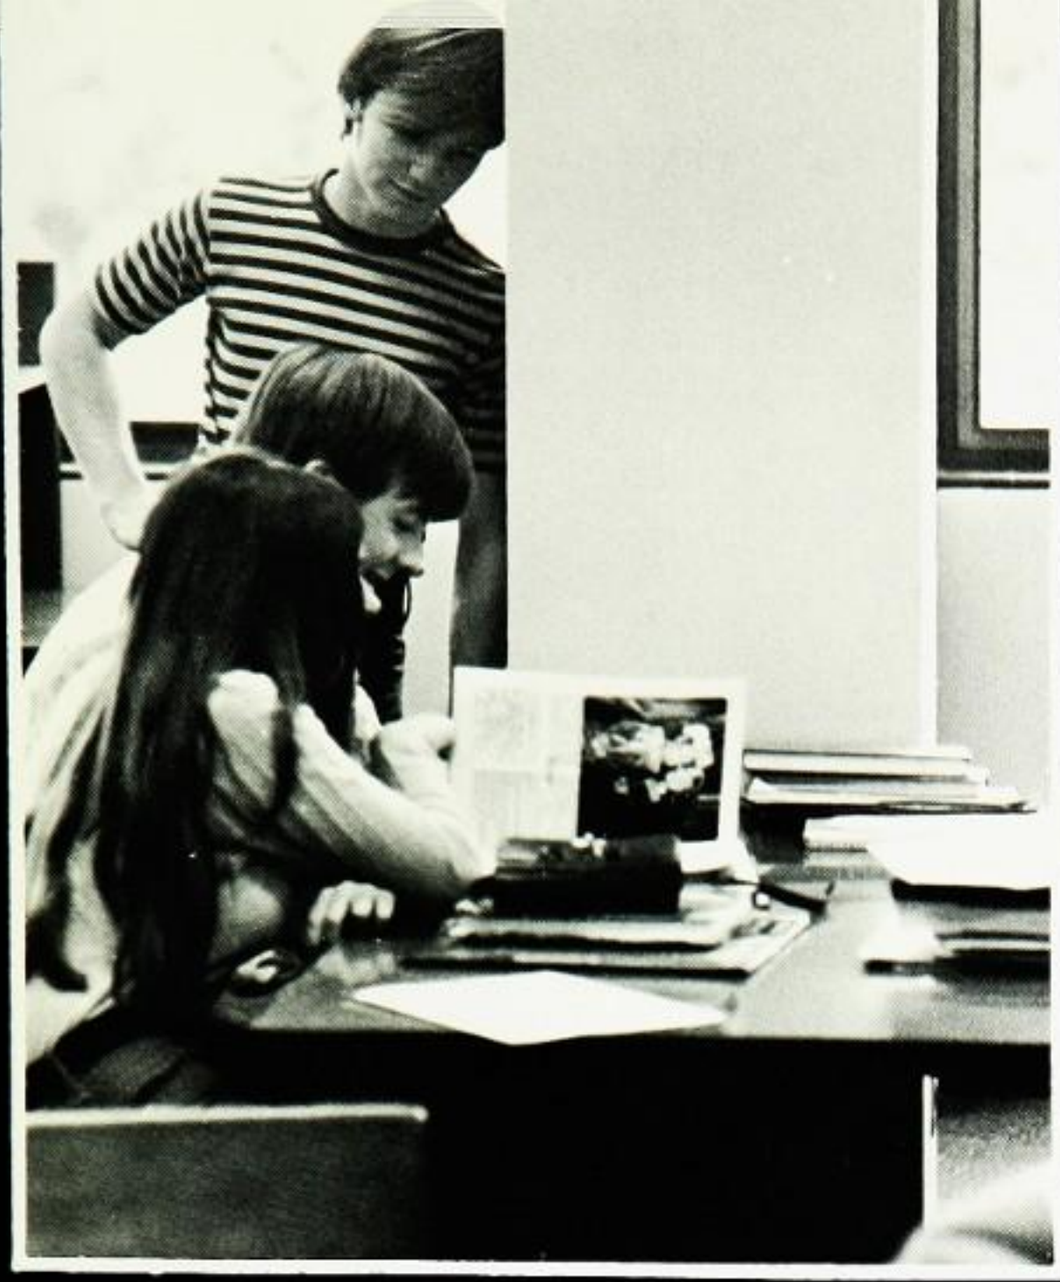


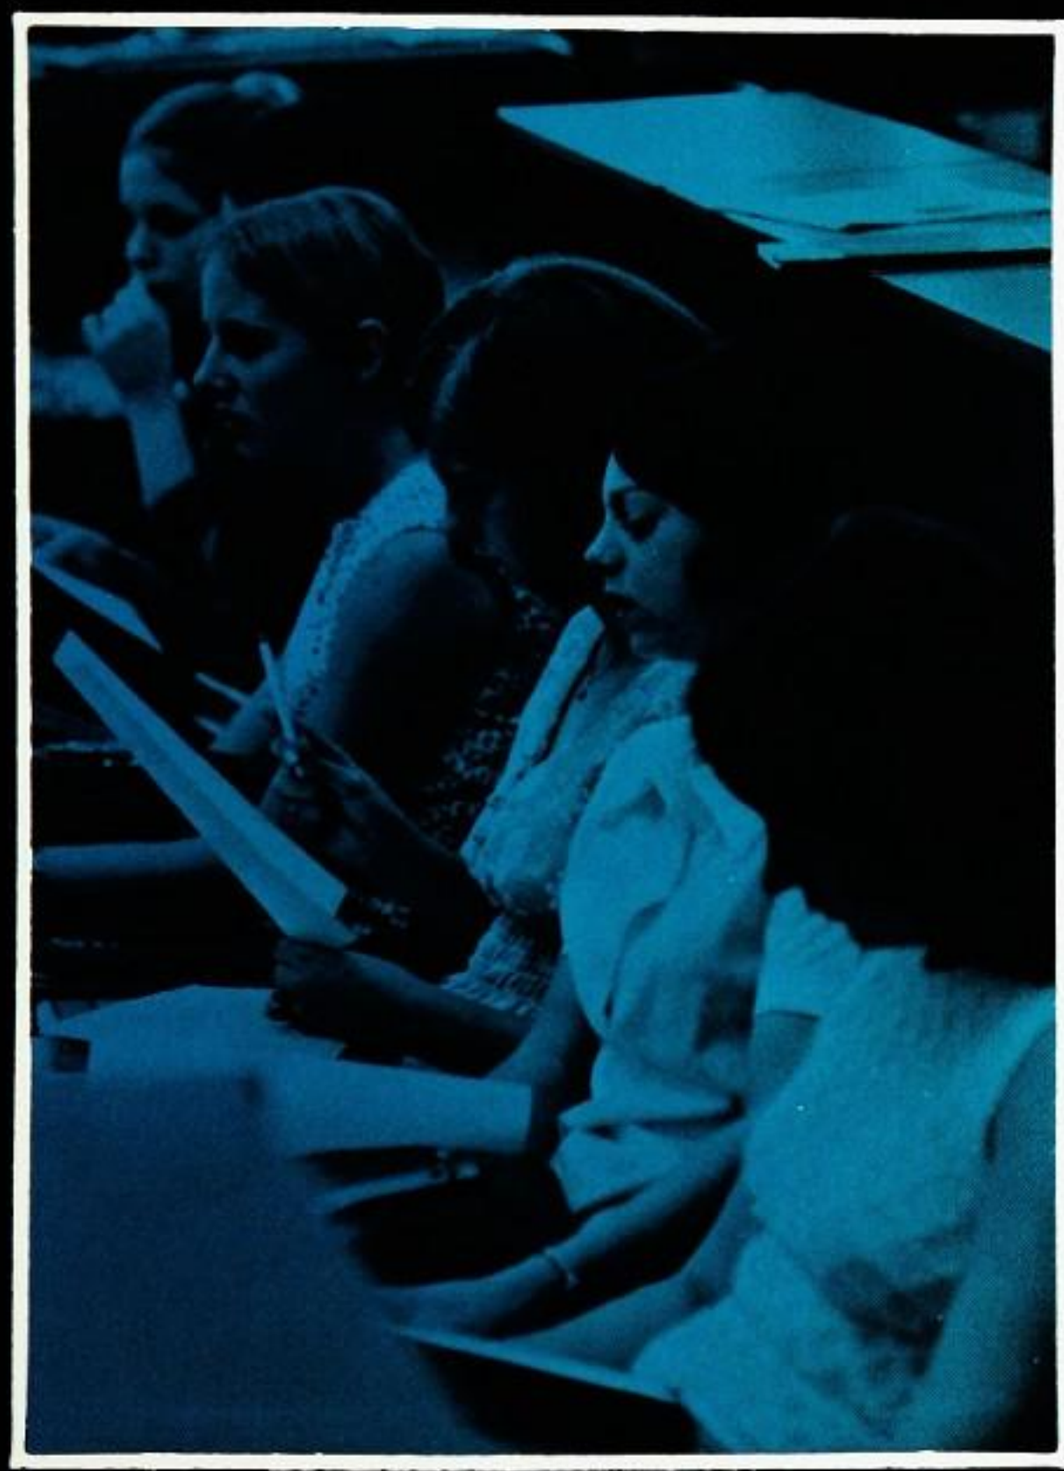
buildings are merely shells, physical limits. Ritenour's physical appearance may change — but only because it's an extension of man's basic desire to try something different and to understand himself better. growth at ritenour depends on mental growth — meeting today's challenges and those of tomorrow.

all change is the product of the limitless human mind.

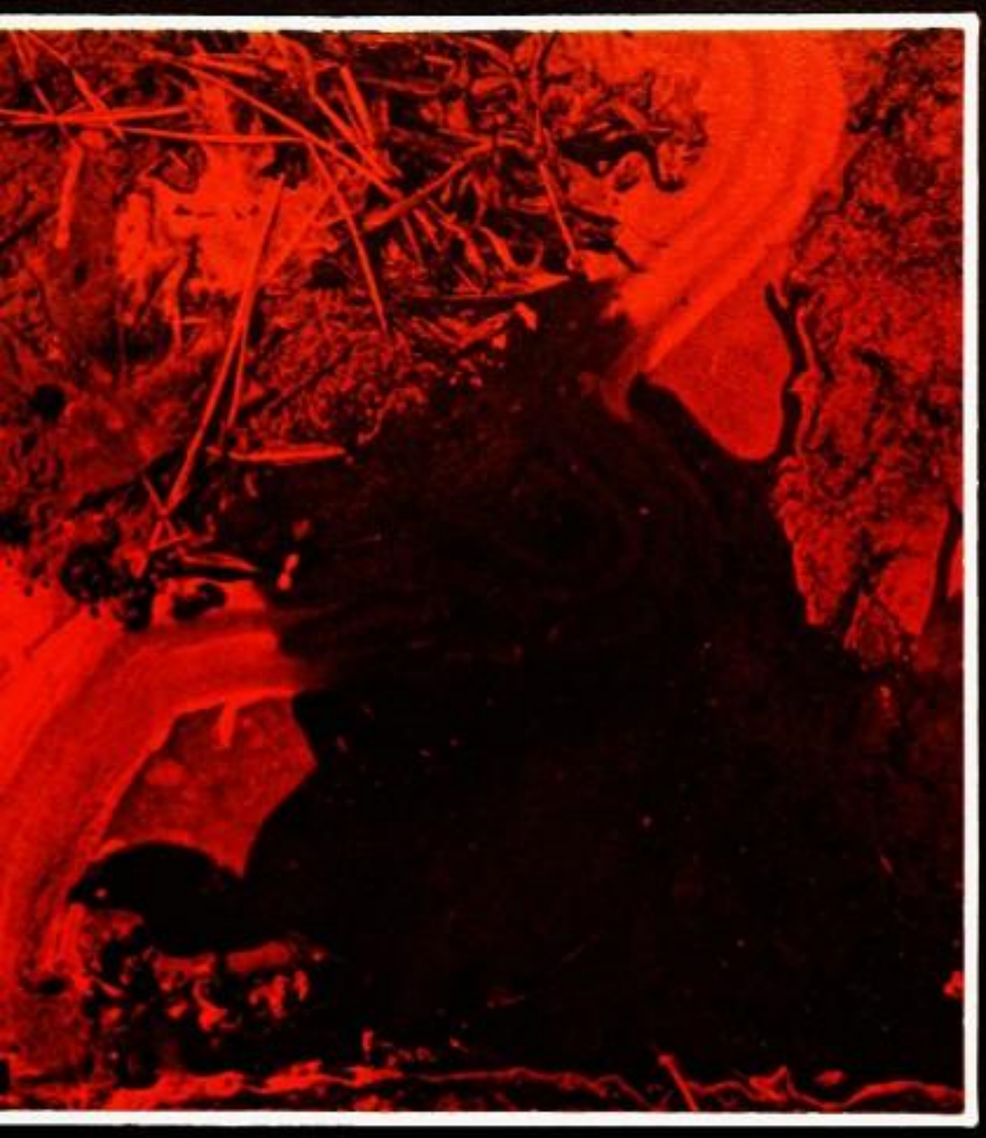




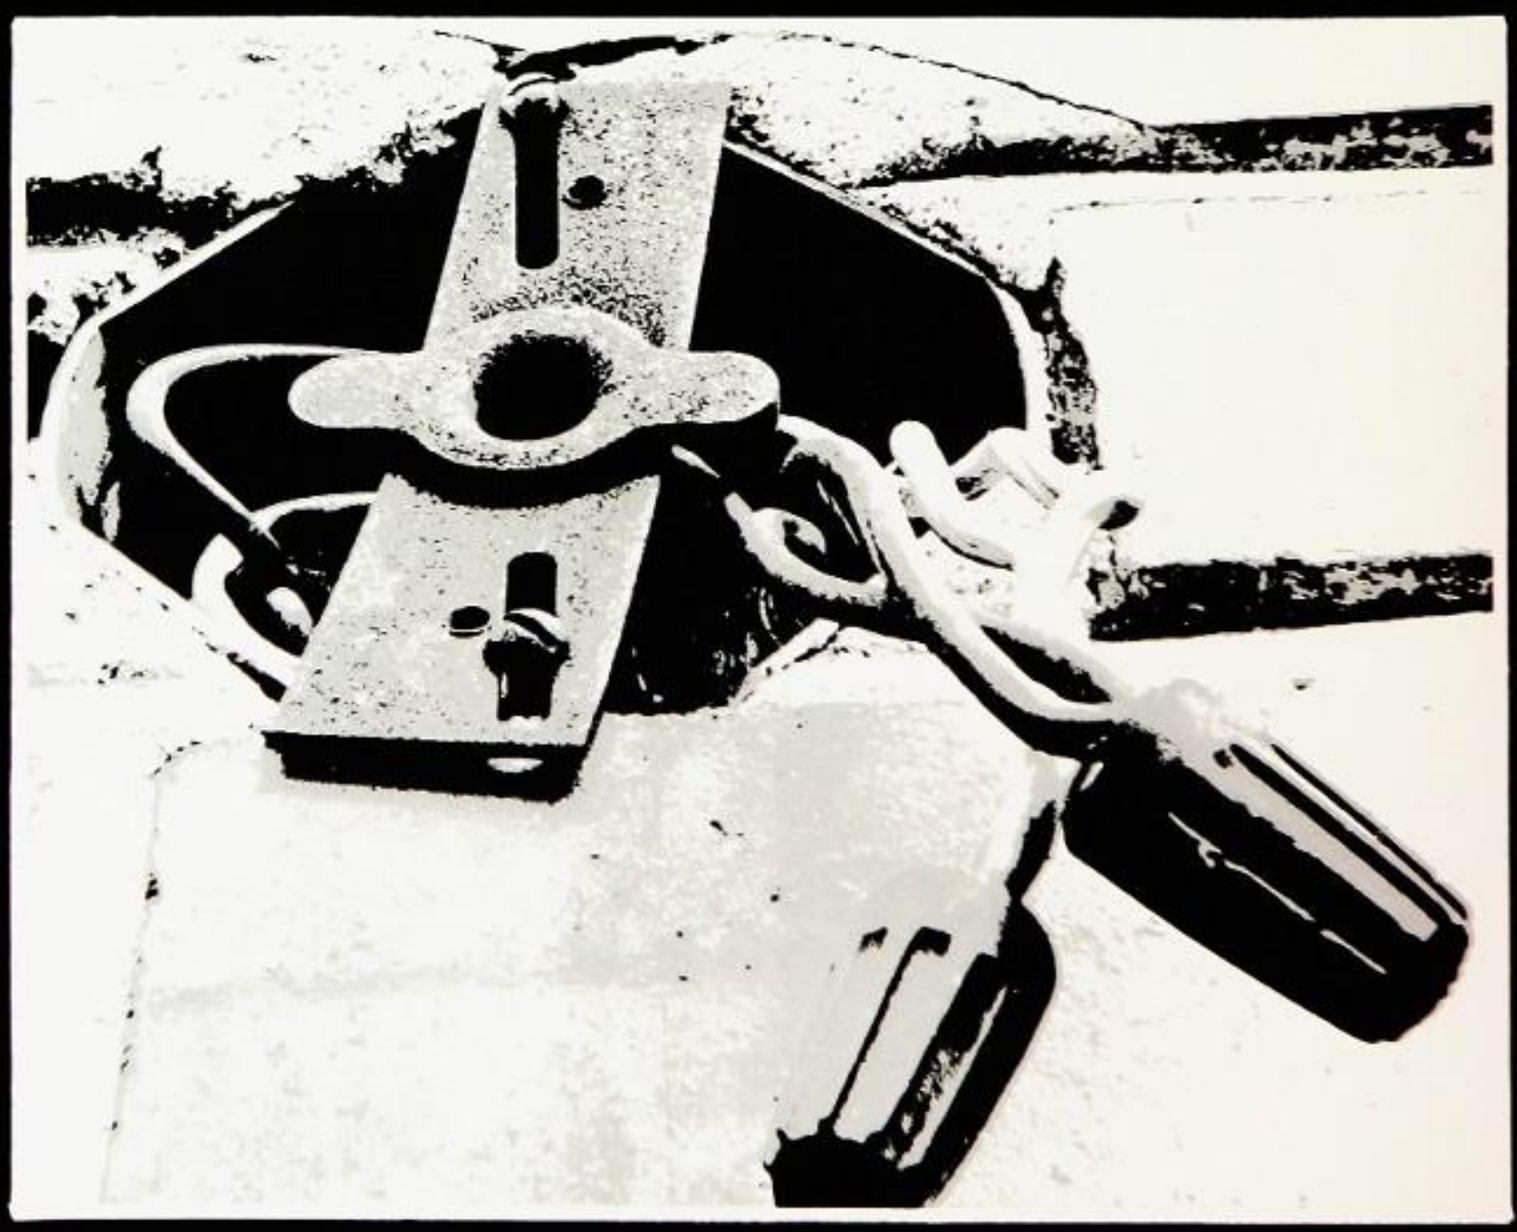


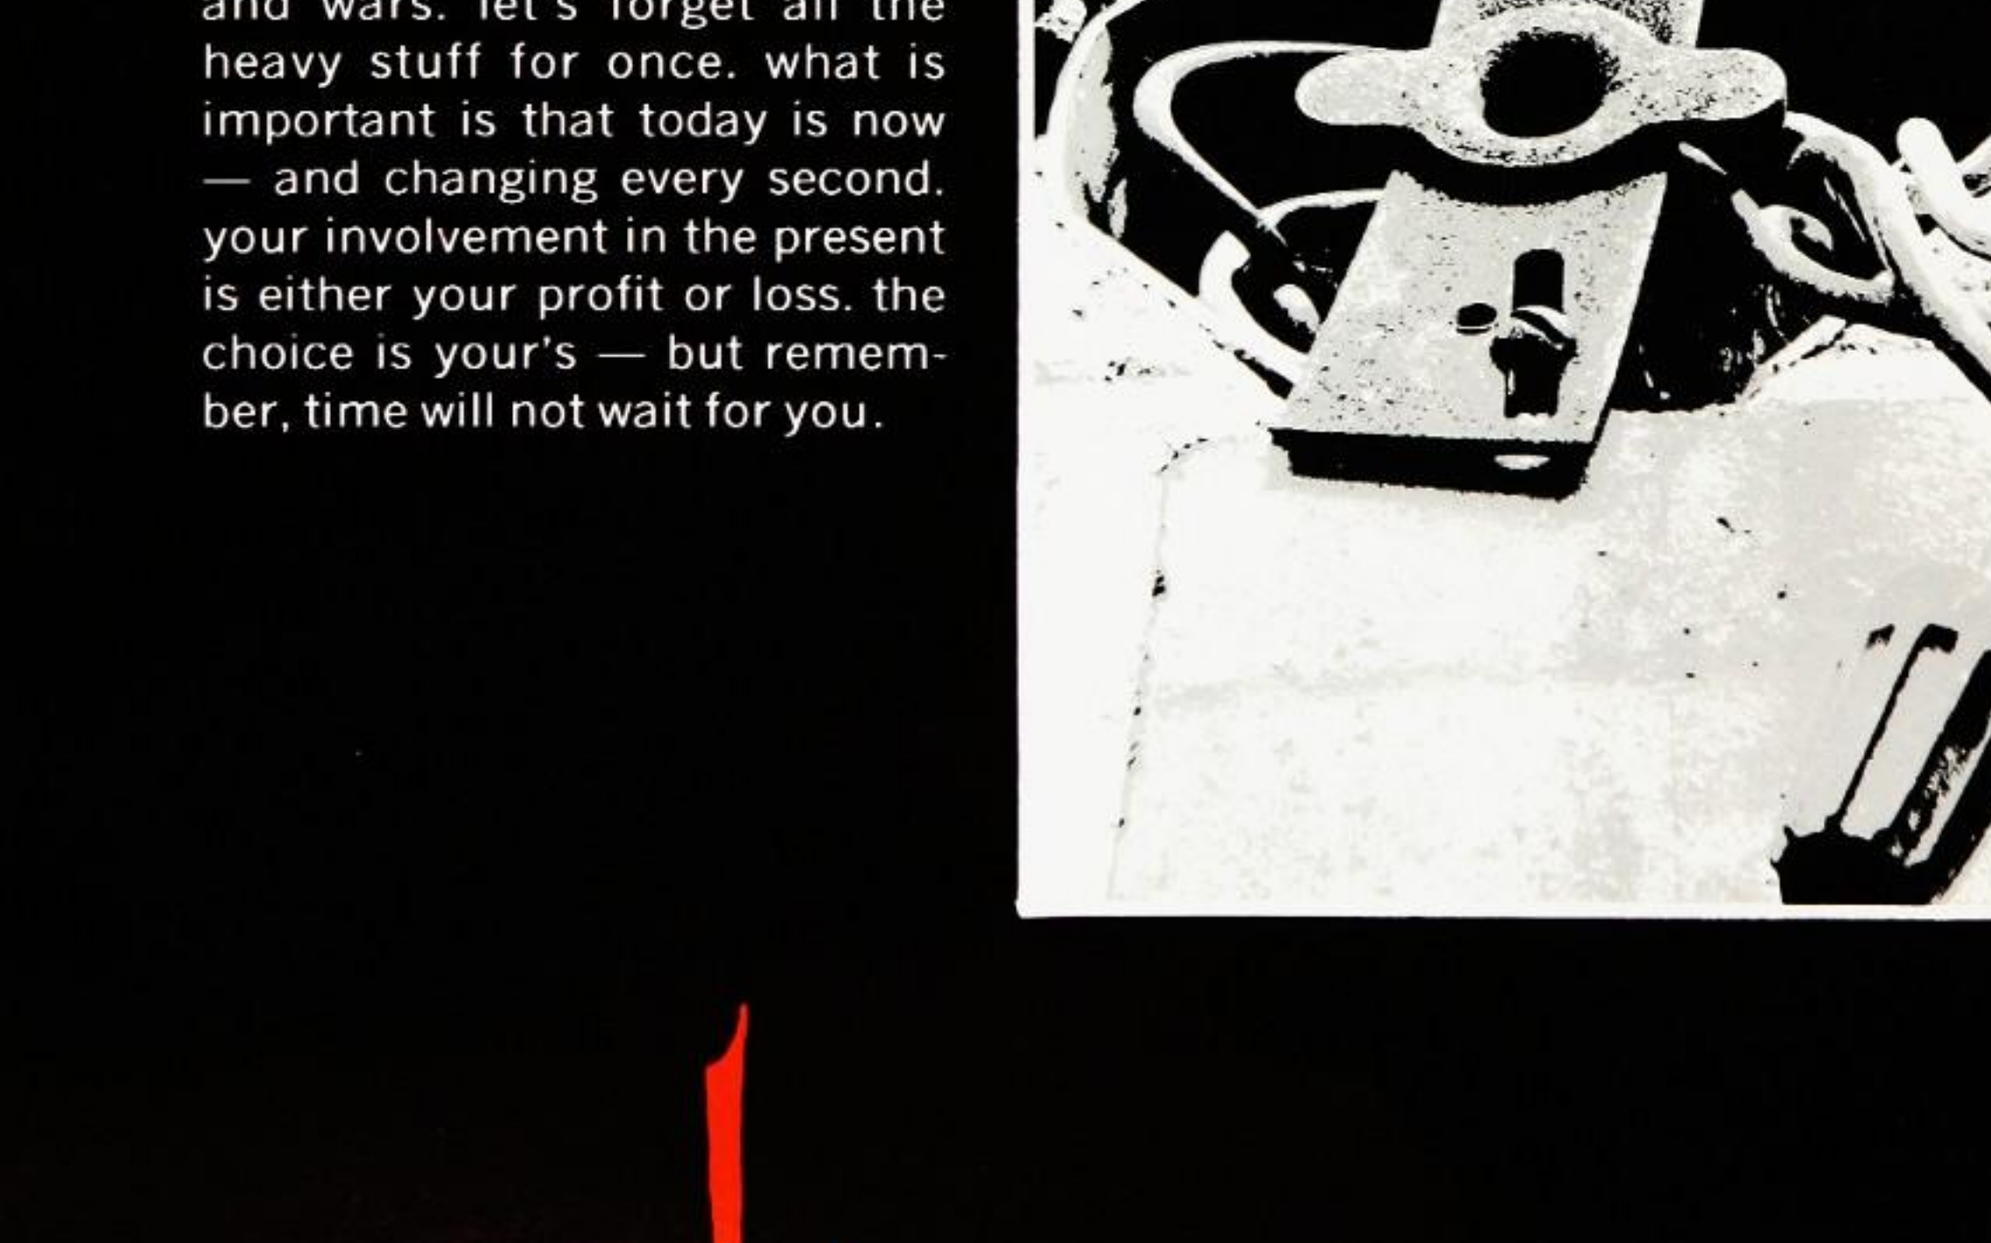


ritenour students are typical with certain things taken in perspective. the problems they face are the same as the ones other secondary students in our own area and nation face — only the degree varies. beneath this shield mediocrity ends. we find that being typical on the whole doesn't outlaw ritenour students from being individualistic. this characteristic may or may not be obvious from 8 to 2:30. we find that many of us come to life after school hours. unlike some of the more affluent high school students, many of those at ritenour have to use their own iniatives to advance themselves. this enhances individuality and makes each student more than just a six digit number.



a lot has been said about student awareness or the lack of it. all right, so you know about pollution, economic recessions, and wars. let's forget all the heavy stuff for once. what is important is that today is now — and changing every second. your involvement in the present is either your profit or loss. the choice is your's — but remember, time will not wait for you.

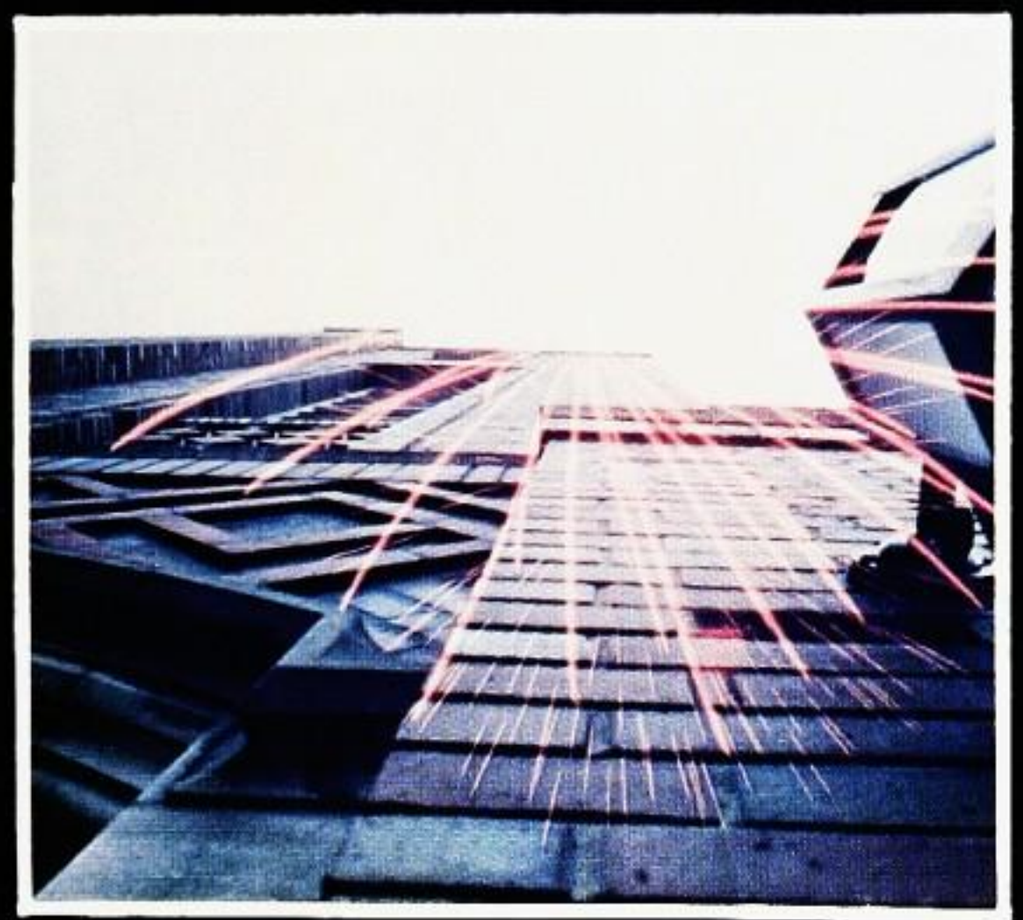


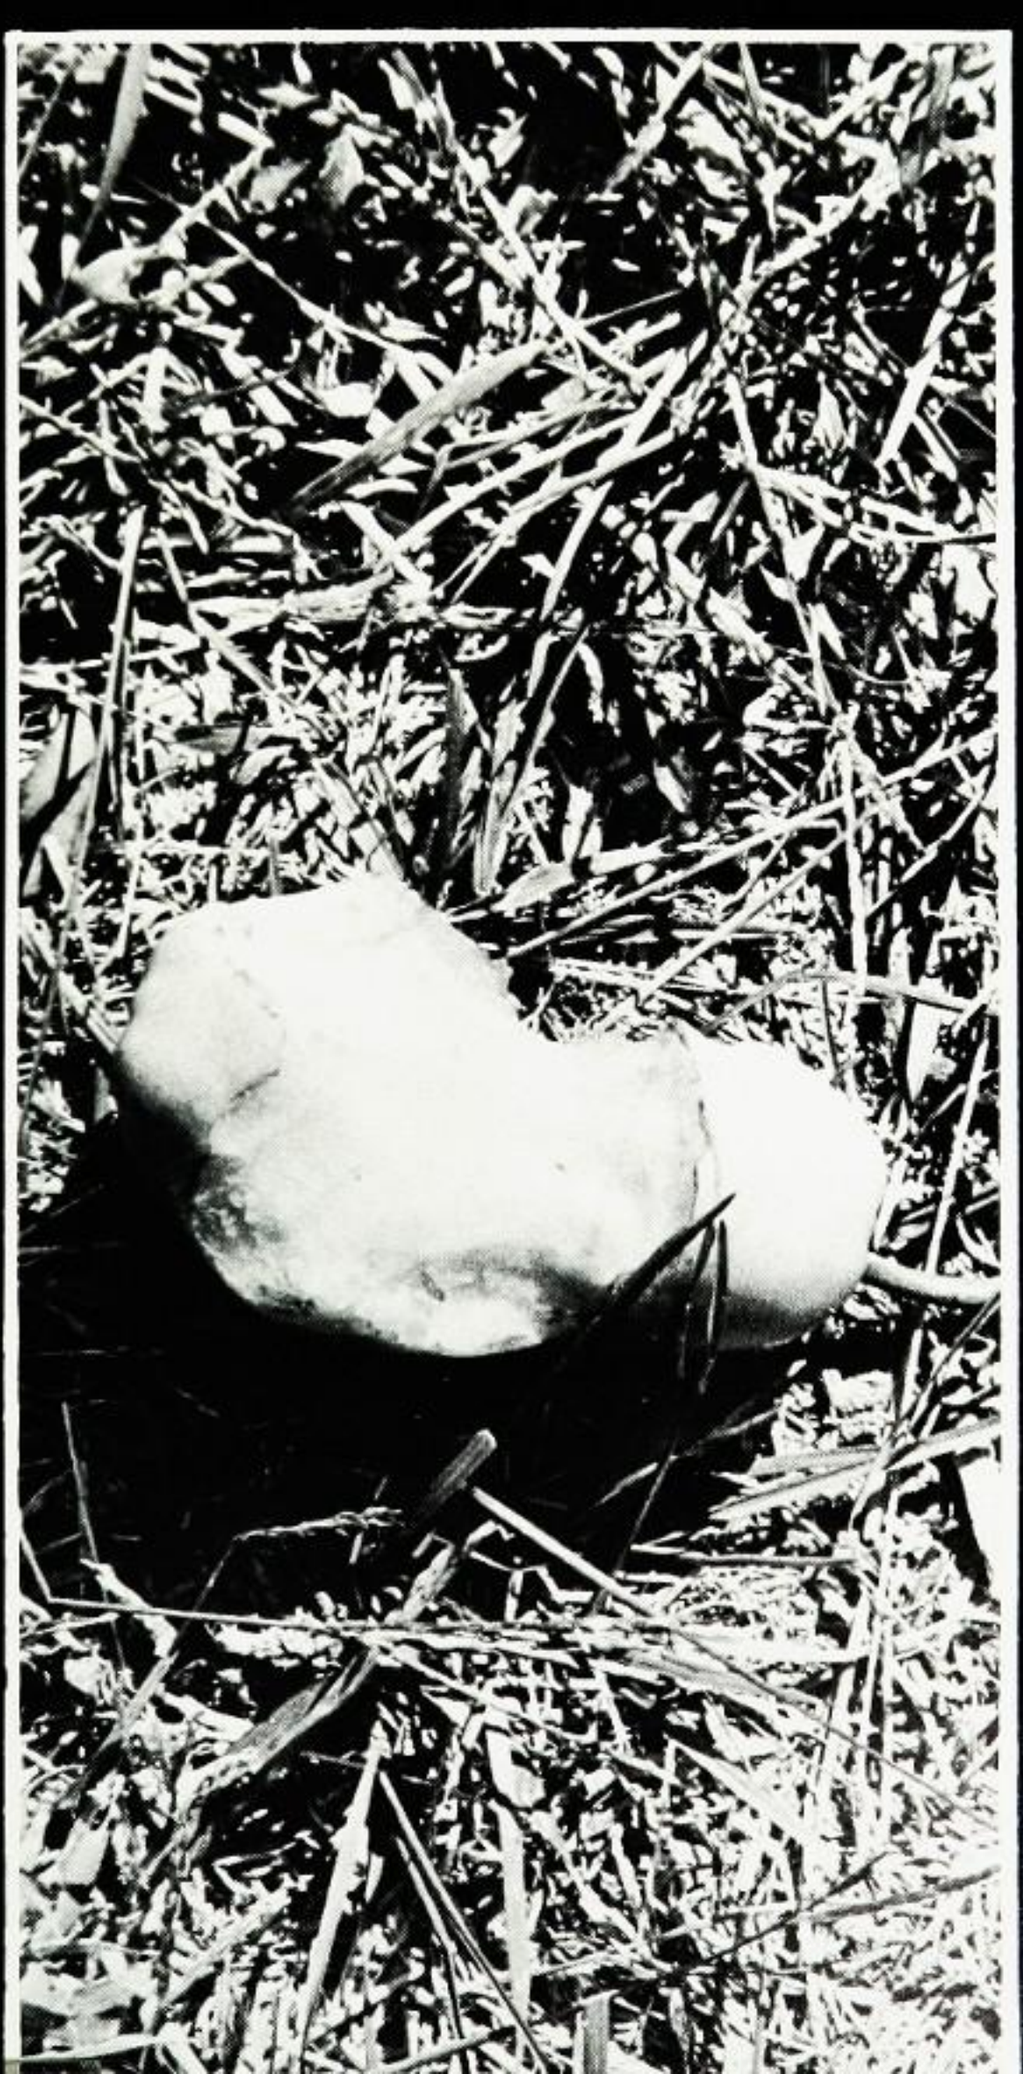


DEST

some people conceive of the present as a continuous, unbroken state. but all too quickly, the present becomes the past, and they are forced to suffer the shock of becoming part of the future.

life in the future holds some pretty exciting possibilities and some serious responsibilities. we'll be changing almost everything — where we live, the way we dress and travel, maybe even the way we're born.

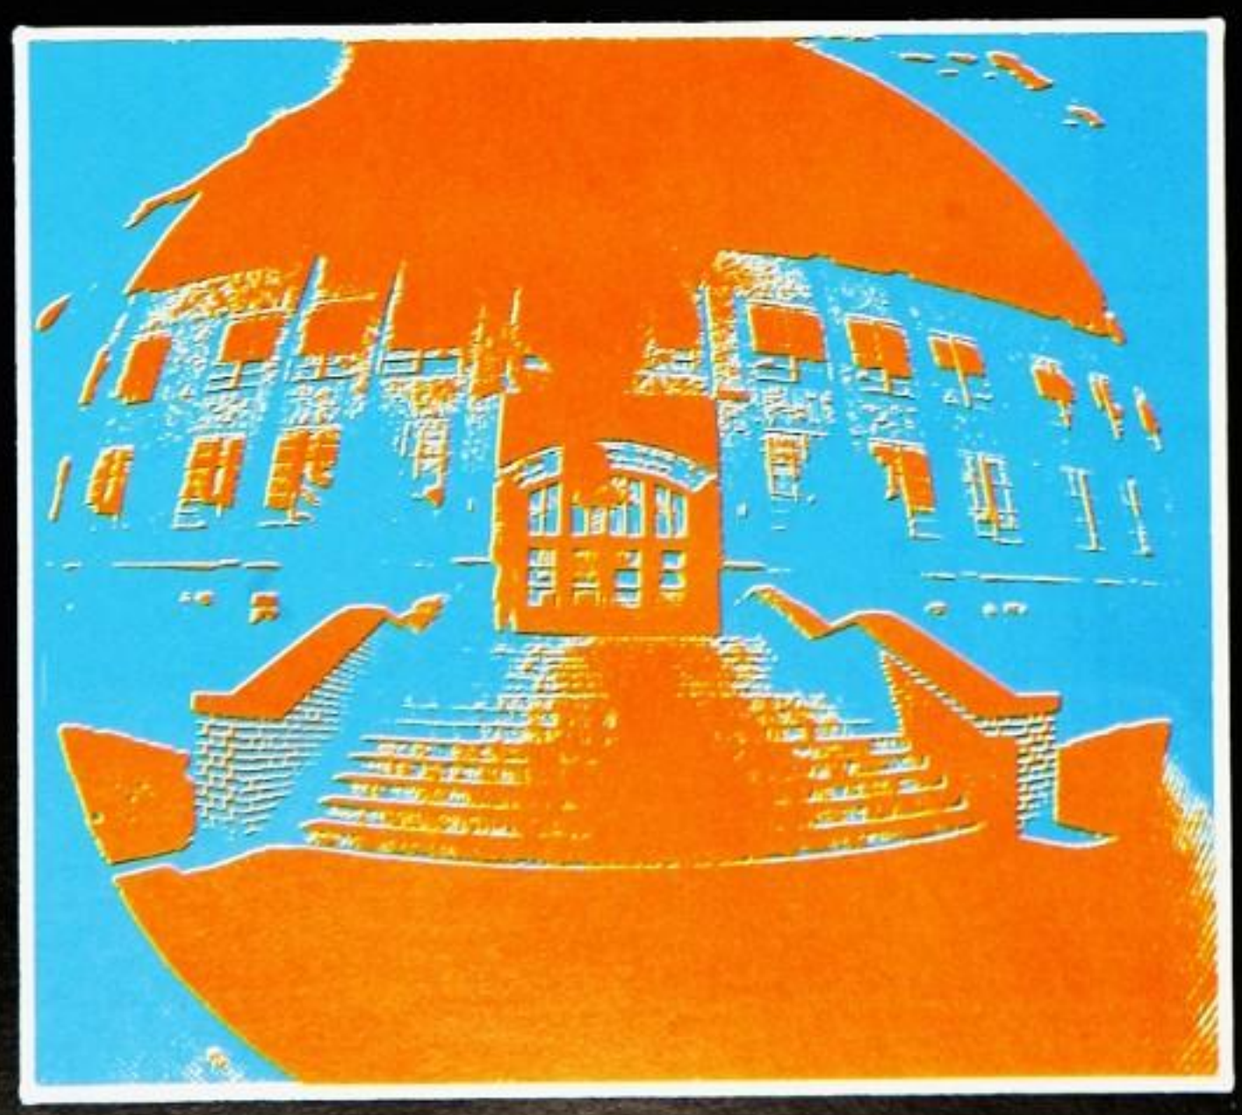




the field of education is undergoing some serious changes now, and will probably continue to do so. high school life as we know it may not exist 15 years from now; our children may attend this same school and never have any conception of what it was like when we were students.

will our children learn by computer instead of through teachers? will there be all new buildings and facilities for their use? will school be in operation 12 months of the year? however the students of the future learn, let's hope that they can be even better prepared to enter society as a vital contribution.

old things are passed away;
behold, all things are become new.
2 corinthians 5:17



the faculty of a school is most important because it must relate directly to the students and their needs. ritenour's faculty is changing with the times and keeping up with the ever-changing student body. we find that teachers generally are becoming more interested in the individual student's thoughts than in the simple playback of facts and information.

the most obvious change that has taken place at ritenour is the alteration of the typical student. his interests are somewhat the same as his counterpart of twenty-five years ago. yet today's ritenour student is far more intelligent, thinks much more for himself, and is becoming more concerned with others around him. the trend in his own self-government is for increased unity of the student body. the ritenour student of the present has changed inwardly as well as outwardly. we judge that change to be one for the better.

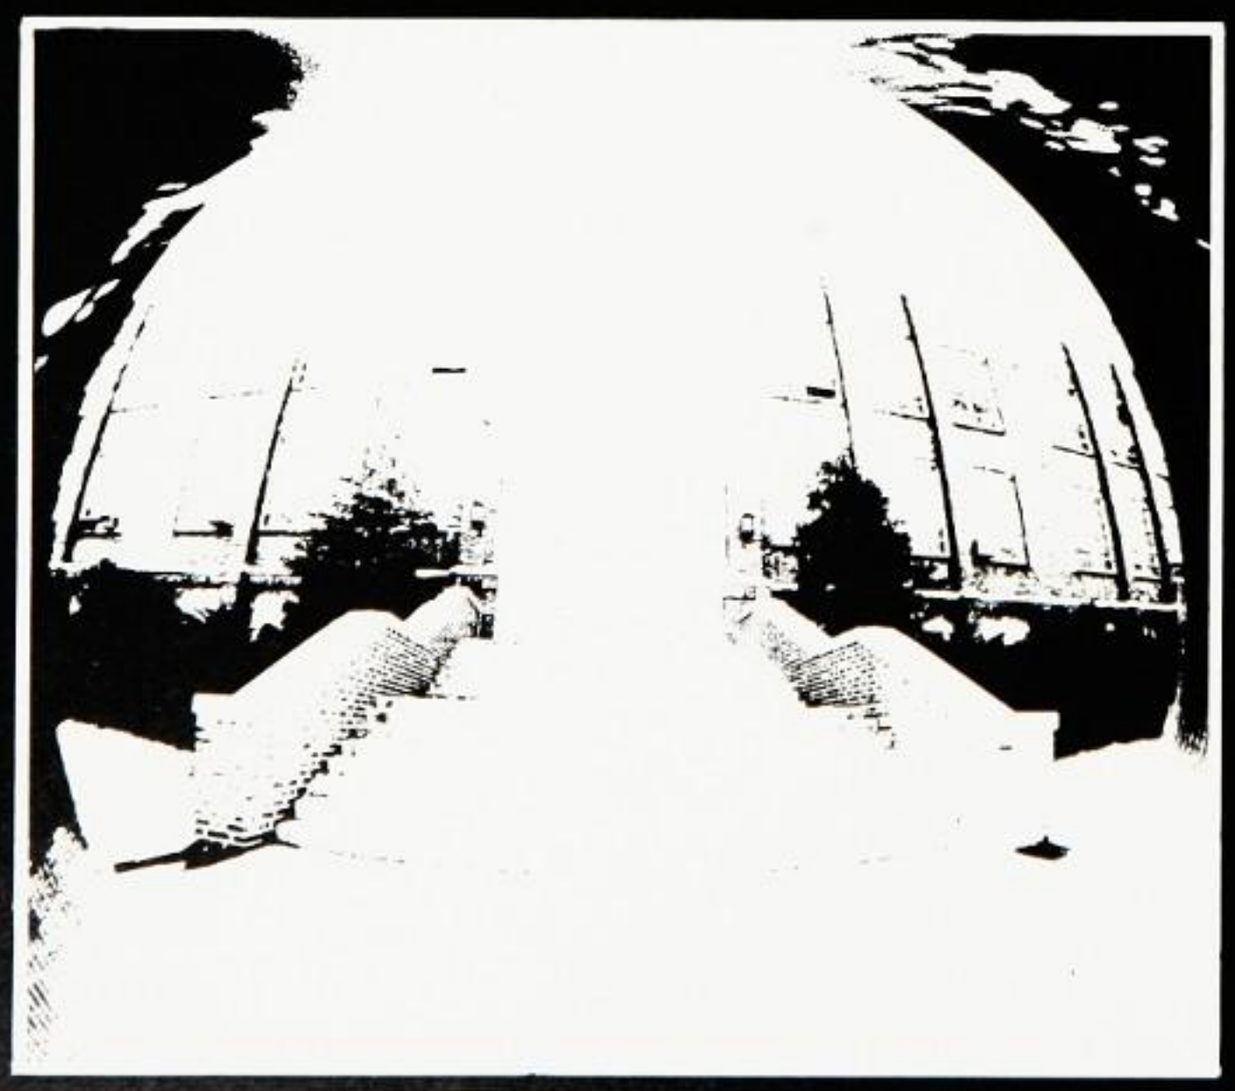
russell henry

we, of 1972 melaureus staff, have tried to record the changes and traditions of ritenour. we've tried to relate the message of change — not only physical change, but change in personal and social values. we hope changes for the better will continue at ritenour, but that is left in your hands.



Sandy,
I'm glad you were
in my class. I got to cut Ray down more. There is nothing more fun than cutting Ray down. Well lots of luck
John Baker

Sandy,
Well our four years
of lunch together, our
over. With a little luck maybe we will
work at the same
place and eat together
If not, call me and
you and I will have
to make some kind
of arrangement for
lunch. Don't forget
how I used to gross
you out at lunch and
all the things we did
together. Good luck
to you and I hope
you succede in fulfillin
all your dreams!
(P.S.) Don't forget
the adventures
of Semour + Peacock

and sincere person
who I know will go

and with Marty.
R.M.A
Sandi Lett
P.S. It does seem funny to write one's own name!

Sandy,
I really don't think
I have taken the test
you wanted it back
too. Good luck always.

It's really been great knowing you these past 3 years. I truly enjoyed having in my family relations class this year. I think it's the only class he learned anything in. Stay as sweet and good as you are and will have no problems. Be good but try to have a little fun. Good luck and best wishes.

R.M.H. Peace in Christ!
